VICAR'S VIEWPOINT

We have a Gospel to Proclaim

Dear friends,

"Say it with flowers" the advertisement said.

Our Harvest Flower Festival will surely do just that! The title is "We have a Gospel to proclaim" and in many ways the flower arrangements and flowers will speak for themselves of the good news of God's love for the world through his brilliant generosity in creation.

Flowers, in their fantastic variety, colours, delicacy, exuberance and beauty, help us to understand more about our Creator. The Genesis account of creation includes a repeating the phrase that I have always been struck by "God saw it and it was good", or in the Good News translation: "was pleased with what he saw".

When we look at nature, the fruits and the flowers we are reminded of the goodness and sheer pleasure of God's creation and how we ourselves are very much part of it.

Dylan Thomas wrote:

*'You are part of this. You belong,' it seems to say.
'The force that through the green fuse
drives the flower
Drives my green age...'*

Another poet Emily Dickinson once said that the only command that she had ever obeyed was to "Consider the lilies". When we respond to Jesus' invitation to consider the lilies then we are overwhelmed by the generosity, joy and delight of our Creator and creation.

Such times can help us to feel more connected, more grounded, more at one with God, whom Paul Tillich described as "The Ground of our Being".

'When I behold the heavens, the works of your hands, the moon and the stars which you set in place...' Psalm 8

When we consider creation we can also be reminded of the fragility of the earth and the damage that we can do if we don't manage our resources wisely. We live in a time of the greatest poverty, destruction and rates of extinction in the history of our planet.

So let us, too, 'Consider the lilies of the field', considering the delights but also our frail and fragile planet and, with all our energies and creativity, work with our Creator to ensure that earth is again "good and pleasing".

Let the flowers say it then and harvest remind us of our part in having a gospel to proclaim.

Songs of Praise

- This is your service and your chance to choose.....

Have you got a favourite Hymn that you would like to sing at our Songs of Praise evening service on October 25th at 6.30 pm?

Please let me know by Sunday October 18th so that we can plan this service. If you would like to introduce the hymn yourself personally and explain why you have chosen it that would be great, or if you wanted to write an introduction for someone else to read we can arrange this.

It would be lovely if you have any readings or prayers that you might like to contribute to make this a very special service indeed. I look forward to hearing from you. Jo
